

Cayley Christoforou is a New England based artist who blends her love of dance with her skills in business and marketing throughout her work. She is currently the Marketing Director of Urbanity Dance, a non-profit organization in Boston, MA , working in both administrative and artistic capacities within the organization the past eight years. She has also been an adjunct faculty member and choreographer multiple times at Salve Regina University and Providence College and an adjudicator for Accelerate Dance Experience. Her choreography has been presented at the highly selective Young Choreographer's Festival, Boston Contemporary Dance Festival, Urbanity NEXT, Urbanity FACTS, Salem Arts Festival, Southern Vermont Dance Festival, and many dance competitions across the New England region. In 2017, she had the honor of being featured in Dance Studio Life Magazine's Contemporary and Modern Issue.

Cayley received her Master's degree in Business Administration, as well as an undergraduate degree in English Communications and Dance from Salve Regina University. During her undergraduate experience, Cayley was an integral part of the Salve dance program. Upon graduation, Cayley received the Salve Regina University Dance Award 2015.